Wallace K. Deem of the Knightstown Banner Says in Editorial Prosecutor Permits Stud Poker Game

IN A NEW CASTLE HOSTELRY

Herbert H. Evans, prosecuting attorney, has placed the name of Wallace K. Deem, editor of the Knights-Banner, on the list of witnesses to be examined before the next grand jury, says the New Castle Courier. The prosecuting attorney's action is the result of the publication of an editorial in the Banner of this week in which the inquiry is made if the State's attorney is still permitting the stud poker game to be run in a prominent hotel here.

The office was at one time inhabited by Newbold and O'Neil. Dennis O'Neil, who was elected prosecutor of the sixteenth judicial district on the Democratic ticket last November eighth, and Will Newbold, defeated candidate on the Democratic ticket for Representative from this county as well as one of the publishers of the Daily Jacksonian, the local Democratic newspaper. Yesterday, Newbold and O'Neil dissolved partnership and the law firm, which had such an auspicious opening and which—at least from the location and the close proximity to the editorial rooms—promised much, is no more. The rumor has been current several days that the firm had divided or split up, so to speak, and this morning, Mr. O'Neil put the stamp of truth on it and confirmed the rumor.

Reasons? They are many. When asked this morning if the appointment of John Cheney of Shelbyville, present prosecutor of the district, as deputy prosecutor for Shelby county during his tenure of office, was not the reason for the dissolution, Dennis O'Neil refused to either deny or confirm the story. He simply said that he refused to state that was the reason and would not give any reason at all. It is understood that the appointment is the principal cause for the separation with a few minor reasons attached.

Democratic as well as Republican politicians have it that Mr. O'Neil refused to be dictated to by two or three of the party leaders who would run, operate and control Rush county Democracy. It is said—and the statement is backed by authority—that three prominent party leaders here said that Mr. O'Neil should appoint Charley Hack of Shelbyville as his deputy in Shelby county. Mr. Hack was at one time the prosecutor of the district. Mr. O'Neil refused to comply with their wishes and argument followed. After argument came heated words and accusations, such as "Traitor" and other similar epithets.

But it seems that the rosecutor-elect was not to be designated by any such terms from the mouths of would-be ring leaders and he pulled out and left the whole bunch. He is as free as the wind now and has not one iota of a string attached to the dictators of the policies of the Democratic party in Rush county.

It is generally known that Mr. Cheney was given the deputyship as the result of a pre-election as well as a pre-convention agreement between

STAMPS WILL NO DOUBT BE SOLD

Daughters of American Revolution May Conduct Sale of Red Cross Emblems This Year.

NO ACTION HAS BEEN TAKEN

Tri Kappas Disposed of Large Number Last Holiday Season—Have Not Considered it Yet.

Although the sale of Red Cross stamps has not been taken up by any local organization yet, it is highly probable that the war against tuberculosis will be aided by charity workers of this city. The Daughters of the American Revolution have been considering the sale of the stamps and it is not improbable that they will have charge in Rushville. They have taken no definite action as yet, but have looked upon the proposition with much favor. They believe that the stamps should be sold here and will take it up provided no other organization desires to do so.

Last year the local chapter of Tri Kappas sold Red Cross stamps here and were highly successful. They managed to dispose of a large number by stationing an office in the postoffice, where two girls were to be found all the time several days before Christmas. The Tri Kappas have not yet considered the sale this year.

Red Cross Christmas seals went on sale in 400 Indiana cities, towns and villages this week, opening the annual campaign to raise funds to fight tuberculosis in this State. The distributing bureau, 246 Federal Building, already has sent out about 350,000 of the bright holiday stickers and has sent an order for 500,000 more to the headquarters at Washington.

Those in charge of the sale in the Hoosier State hope to dispose of more than 1,000,000 of the seals before Christmas day. They have hopes that the proceeds of the sales will be $12,000 or $15,000.

With 400 cities, towns and villages taking an active part in the campaign, there are three times as many agencies established this year as in 1909 and it is expected the sales will show a large growth for that reason.

Through the clubs of the Indiana Federation of Clubs, the seals are being placed on sale in many stores of county seats. Mrs. Grace Julian Clarke, president of the federation, has taken an active interest in the Christmas seals movement.

The Daughters of the American Revolution are giving their help in a number of places and anti-tuberculosis societies are conducting campaigns in other places. The campaign in Richmond is in the care of three newspapers—the Item, the Palladium and the News. In Indianapolis the Flower Mission is assisting the Red Cross and will have the seals on sale in every neighborhood within a few days.

The largest returns from seal sales last year, outside of Indianapolis was in Terre Haute, where the sum realized was nearly $500. The campaign there was conducted by the Society of Organized Charities.

IS CRACKERJACK MAN.

C. S. Elliott of Spiceland, widely known at county fairs through the excellent quality of his crackerjack, has purchased two stands in the Indianapolis public market. The two will be merged and Mr. Elliott will attend market three days each week, giving Indianapolis a taste of his excellent corn product.

HORSES SELL AT GOOD PRICE

Second Regular Combination Sale Was Held at Davis Brothers' Barn This Afternoon.

BIDDING SPIRITED AT TIMES

Interest in Auction Centered in 20 Head of Young Mules, Which Were Sold.

The second regular combination sale was held at the Davis Brothers' sale barn in South Main street this afternoon. As large, if not larger, crowd was in attendance at the auction than that which attended the first one, held the following day after the horse show.

The biddin this afternoon was spirited, many head of horses and mules going under the hammer at good prices. The highest price of the sale was paid for a large draft horse—one hundred and seventy-five dollars. Many other horses, as well as some of the mules, sold for almost that much money. Few horses were sold for less than one hundred dollars.

The most interest was centered in the mule sale. Twenty head of the lop-eared animals were placed in the auction to be sold under the hammer and they all brought fairly good prices. Some of the younger animals did not sell very well, one pair bringing nearly one hundred dollars. The mules were placed in the sale by Tourney and Smith of Cynthiana, Ky. Tourney and Smith also shipped a car load of Jerseys, forty head, for the auction. They also brought good prices. Many local horses and colts were placed in the sale and auctioned off. One pony was the only one of his class or breed to be placed on sale.

VICTIMS ARE IMPROVING

Alva Hungerford and Chester Cross Both Better Today.

The two victims of Thanksgiving accidents are gradually improving.

Chester Cross, son of Frank Cross, who was accidentally shot while hunting Thursday, is somewhat better today. It will be impossible to determine whether or not amputation is necessary for several days. Alva Hungerford, who fell off a barn is somewhat better today, but there is still danger of internal complications arising.

Sheriff Miller left at 11 o'clock on Friday morning for Greenfield, taking with him young Earl Sterrett, who was arrested here Tuesday night, on information received by the police from officials of the I. & C. traction line, says the Connersville News. The young man has been held in jail here since his arrest. He is charged with complicity in the robbery of the I. & C. station at New Palestine. He was taken yesterday by order of the circuit judge in Hancock county.

WILL NOT PUSH THE PROSECUTION

Case Against Owens and Wolters For Driving on New Paving Will be Dropped.

CEMENT MUST BE HARDENED

The contemplated charges to be filed against Ed Wolters, a grocer of West First street and Clyde Owens, driver of the L. L. Allan grocery wagon, for driving on the new brick paving in Main street before it had been opened for traffic, will not be pushed and prosecution will be dropped. Since Mr. Allen had seen many other people driving on the street and since it was much easier for him to load his groceries in front of his store rather than back of it, he could not understand why he should be prosecuted while others were allowed to go free. He intended to fight the case if the prosecution had ever been started.

I. N. Harper, vice-president of the Adams Construction Company, went to the authorities and asked that the affidavits be filed and was sincere in his attempt to prosecute. But the officials were slow in acting and since the vice-president's temper has cooled he will not push it. But he asks that no one drive on the streets until they are opened as one wagon might destroy as much street as that over which it passes if the cement between the bricks has not yet hardened.

WAS INJURED BY FEW STRAY SHOTS

Miss Dove Wiker of Connersville, Well Known in This City, Was Slightly Hurt Thanksgiving.

WAS ENTIRELY ACCIDENTAL

Miss Dove Wiker of Connersville, who has visited Miss Leah Oneal in this city a number of times and who is well known here, was the victim of an accidental shooting affair Thanksgiving day. Miss Wiker was spending the day with the Misses Alta and Mabel Bilby at their country home. Mr. Bilby went out early in the forenoon to hunt rabbits, accompanied by the young women. They became tired and fell behind Mr. Bilby. In the meantime he discovered a rabbit and fired. Miss Wiker who was not in sight, received a few shots from the charge. She was a considerable distance away and the shot barely sunk into the skin. It was a mere accident and no one is to be blamed.

Burley Bullard the young paroled convict from the Indiana reform school for boys at Plainfield, who hired a horse of Ed Peed, the Race street liveryman, last Saturday afternoon and failed to return it, now languishes in the county jail, says the New Castle Courier. He was taken into custody at Greensburg by Sheriff Kirk after having been arrested by the marshal of that town at the home of his uncle, south of Greensburg. The young thief, who has just passed the age of fifteen, admits his guilt and told the entire story of his flight with the Peed rig.

Bullard stated to Sheriff Kirk that after renting the shot gun from the May Brothers Hardware company, he went to the Peed barn, where he hired the horse and buggy and immediately started south. He drove from this city to Connersville and from there to a point about a mile north of Greensburg. There he abandoned the horse and buggy and circulated around Greensburg on foot to the home of his uncle, where he was arrested Wednesday evening. He had abandoned the horse that morning.

On being arrested young Bullard told the Greensburg marshal where he had left the horse. The animal was found that night standing quietly tied to a telegraph pole. It was driven to Greensburg and placed in a livery barn. Friday Mr. Peed obtained possession of his property.

Sheriff Kirk on arriving at the Greensburg jail demanded the gun of Bullard, which he had taken from the May Brothers' store. The boy said that he had broken the weapon while trying to adjust the plunger. He had thrown it in a fence corner. The young outlaw accompanied Sheriff Kirk to the place where he had hidden the gun and it was found with the stock entirely broken off and rendered practically valueless.

Sheriff Kirk Friday notified the authorities at the Plainfield reform school of the violation of his parole on the part of Bullard. The superintendent stated that an officer would be sent to New Castle Saturday to accompany the youngster back to the institution. As he will be forced to remain at Plainfield until he reaches his majority, no attempt will be made to press the charges of horse stealing against him here.

Bullard is also charged with stealing a shot gun from Ad Kendall, south of the city. He broke that weapon and left it at the May Brothers' store to be repaired. A charge of stealing a pair of gloves from the home of Robert Hosea, who lives on the Hart farm, south of New Castle, has also been lodged against him. The boy states that he is but fifteen years of age, although he looks to be two or three years older. He is very large and extremely muscular. Two years ago he was convicted of robbing a hardware store at Greensburg and was paroled from that institution about seven weeks ago in the care of his grandfather, Henry May, of Greensburg.

New Ailment Baffles Science

Infantile Paralysis Germ Has So Far Evaded Capture
In Pursuit by Eminent Physicians—Attacks
Grown-Up People as Well as Infants

The medical profession of the world is anieapped before the scourge of infantile paralysis, according to a statement made before the Chicago Neurological Society.

The disease has been epidemic throughout the civilized world for five years. It was general in the United States during the year. The northern part of the country is enjoying a respite from its attacks during the cold weather, but its onset again is expected with the spring.

"We are up against it," said Dr. H. E. Robertson, "We have not been able to cultivate the germs in laboratories. We can not learn anything from animals. We can not even diagnose the disease, because the first certain symptom is the paralysis of the patient."

Dr. Robertson is associate professor of pathology in the University of Minnesota, where a severe epidemic of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, has prevailed for two years. The research laboratories of the state university have produced no

"The disease attacks the strongest and most active children," said Dr. Robertson. "It is not confined to infants. Many victims are adults. The high fatality is caused by reaching the acute stage in three or four days. Up to that time the symptoms might indicate any infectious malady. There are no definite symptoms and the first warning the practitioner has is the paralysis of his patient."

The fatality is 20 per cent, according to Dr. Robertson. There were nine hundred cases in Minnesota last summer. No section of the country was spared. Many cases now exist in Illinois.

"The disease depends upon a definite focus," said Dr. Robertson, "but the organism is so minute as not to be distinguishable under the microscope. All efforts to propagate have failed. There has been no step made toward the cultivation of an immunizing serum. The research laboratories of the world are trying to has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are seeing large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

isolate the germ, but so far nothing has been done.

"The disease sprung into widespread epidemic several years ago, though it has appeared sporadically for a long time. Why it suddenly developed into a world scourge is not known. The professor can only hold up its hands before it in the present state of knowledge. When we will be able to combat it is possible to say.

"Infantile paralysis is a specific infection characterized by general oxiemia. The heart, liver, kidneys and lymphoid tissues are affected. It results in degeneration of the ganglia of the spinal cord.

"Its progress is marked by congestion of the vessels of the cord which break down and discharge into the spinal canal. Early degeneration of the nerve fibers is a constant feature. From the destruction of areas of the spinal cord results the paralysis which may affect only a certain muscle or group of muscles corresponding to the portion of the cord destroyed.

"A portion of the cord destroyed is destroyed forever. There is no repair possible.

The early symptoms of the disease are similar to those of any infection. Headaches, nausea, febrile symptoms, and general prostration that might indicate anything. Then follows the paralysis."

Hope for victims was held out by Dr. John W. Jobling, who said that the degeneration of the ganglia cells was a secondary symptom.

"This being the case," he said, "when the serum is found it will be possible to avert the disease before paralysis taken place.

"The disease is paralleled by three others in men—rabbies, dengue and yellow fever. In animals it is paralleled by hog cholera, pleuro pneumonia and foot and mouth disease of cattle.

"No serum has been found for hog cholera. The best that can be done is to inject the blood of diseased animals. This carries with it the serum, which has produced some slight results.

"There are changes in the spinal fluid in human beings. As soon as the disease is suspected a lumbar puncture should be made and the spinal fluid examined. When the disease has progressed to the acute stage it is too late as the changes in the fluid has passed."

In the discussion of the disease that followed Dr. Robertson's address it developed that physicians have not been able to agree as to whether or not the disease is actively infectious. No prophylactic measures have been authoritatively recommended.

In Indiana there have been a number of cases of infantile paralysis the past year. Several deaths have occurred from it, one of the victims being a prominent young lady of Logansport. To the general public the disease is new although it has been known to physicians for several years.

Government Sounds Warning

There are few families whose ancestors lived in Europe but have a shadow of a claim to a great fortune awaiting them over here. This has largely come about through circular letters from wily swindlers in New York, London and elsewhere claiming that people are heirs to estates and soliciting small fees for investigation, etc. All hopes so flimsily founded are or ought to be dashed by the publication of circular letters received by Wm. T. Fletcher, post-office inspector of this section. The letters are duplicates of those written the secretary of State at Washington by the American embassies of the different nations.

In regard to the estates in England J. R. Lowell, of the United States legation at London, states that supposed claimants in this country, instead of being duped by fraudulent claim agents in England can easily ascertain by any British or American practitioner of standing whether there is any justification for legal pursuit, which, he states, is not one case out of a thousand will be discovered to exist.

The circular letter pertaining to conditions in Germany contains the information that careful investigation has never verified the existence of the supposed estate or claim. Moreover, it is said, the legislation of Germany is such as to effectually and without appeal dispose of all claims and there is no cause for Americans to be swindled by the enticing offers of claim agents.

Conditions in Holland are literally the same according to the letters. The proposition is summed up in the advice of Mr. Lowell to the claimants, "They might as well seek to recover possession of a castle in Spain through the intervention of our minister in that country."

Shall we Rejoice

Gladness comes with a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed and assisted by the pleasant laxative remedy Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

Its beneficial effects are due to the fact that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

PUPILS AID CHINESE NAVY.

Fund Raised by Boys Being Educated In America.

To show that they are no less patriotic than their friends at home the Chinese students in the United States will contribute monthly toward the popular fund now being raised in China to enlarge the imperial Chinese navy.

Y. C. Ma, a Yale graduate, who is a student in the department of political science at Columbia university, has been appointed by the joint council of Chinese students in North America to act as chairman of a committee to collect funds from the students.

"We do not believe the fund we'll get will amount to much," said Ma, "but we want to show that we are for the movement, that's all."

Many government supported students have agreed to save a part of the $550 a year they are allowed. Some boys will deny themselves the enjoyment of cigarettes and resort to the use of pipes to show their patriotism. Not only government supported students will contribute toward the fund, but also those who have to work their way through college.

About 500 Chinese students are attending colleges or universities in this country. The largest number in one institution is at Columbia university, where there are thirty-nine. There are thirty-two in the University of Wisconsin, twenty-five at Michigan and the remainder in the east or middle west.

ANTLERS HANG A MOOSE.

Fails to Revive When Released From Natural Trap.

E. E. Sweet of Mars Hill, a game warden, in his report to the game commissioners relates a predicament in which he found a large bull moose near Presque Isle lake in Maine.

The animal was lying on his side and hung by one of his horns on a broken blowdown. It was trying to free himself but had driven his legs under the log into the soft ground until it was impossible to get out.

Sweet got a lumberman to help liberate the animal. They cut him loose and pulled him out, but he could not get upon his feet. His neck and side seemed paralyzed. He probably had been lying there several days. They cut feed for him, but he wouldn't eat and died the next morning. He had fifteen points on his antlers.

Both Speedy and Effective.

This indicates the action of Foley Kidney Pills as S. Parsons, Battle Creek, Mich., illustrates: "I have been afflicted with a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble for which I found no relief until I used Foley Kidney Pills. These cured me entirely of all my ailments. I was troubled with backaches and sever shoving pains with annoying urinary irregularities. The steady use of Foley Kidney Pills rid me entirely of all my former troubles. They have my highest recommendations." Sold by F. B. Johnson & Co.

Shall Women Vote?

If they did, millions would vote Dr. King's New Life Pills the true remedy for women. For banishing dull, fagged feelings, backache or headache, constipation, dispelling colds, imparting appetite and toning up the system, they're unequalled. Easy, safe, sure. 25c. at F. B. Johnson & Co.

GOV. DENEEN STARTS STORM

Illinois Executive's Advice to the Convention Not to Start Anything That Would Antagonize the Federal Government Created Storm of Protest—When President Kavanaugh Scored Taft the Convention Was Delighted.

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—Judging from indications on the floor of the convention hall where the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterways association is in session, the delegates will unanimously endorse the fourteen-feet-through-the-valley project and nothing less than that. An uproar occurred when Governor Charles S. Deneen of Illinois mounted the platform and said that if the convention antagonized the federal government they would gain nothing and that the best thing to do was to await the decision of the federal investigating committee. This was followed by many cries from the 3,500 delegates present of "No, no, we know what we want"; "Give us fourteen feet and nothing less," and so on.

In his opening address President Kavanaugh bitterly scored Mr. Taft, openly charging that he was not favorable to the idea proposed by the delegates, but was a booster for his own little old Ohio river. Kavanaugh's remarks caused a demonstration the like of which has never before been equalled in this city, hats flying in the air, men shouting, whistling, cheering, and women waving handkerchiefs. A later address that created enthusiasm was that of Edward A. Halsey of Chicago, chairman of the river improvement committee of the Real Estate Exchange of Chicago. Halsey said: "If the convention does not stand for fourteen feet through the valley, then every delegate who votes against that plan thereby, in my judgment, disqualifies himself forever after to being called a deep-waterways man."

The demonstration following this assertion was deafening, requiring continued efforts on the part of President Kavanaugh to check it, only to break out again and again. Halsey recalled the remarks of Theodore Roosevelt: "We will build the lakes-to-the-gulf deep waterway in the same way that we are building the Panama canal—honestly."

An exciting contest bordering on riot between Governor Deneen and Senator Lorimer for control of the Illinois delegates to the convention, was the center of interest for forty-five minutes. Deneen won when his nominee, Isham Randolph, who represents his policy of immediate waterway work in Illinois, was elected to the resolutions committee over Lorimer's candidate, Congressman Henry T. Rainey. Lorimer favors waiting until the federal government makes an appropriation before beginning to spend the proceeds of Illinois's $20,000,000 bond issue for river improvement. The Illinois fight followed a similar contest in the Missouri delegation, in which David R. Francis supported Leo Rassieur as a member of the resolutions committee and had the satisfaction of electing him over the head of his recently victorious antagonist in the senatorial primaries, James A. Reed.

HE HAS NO FEAR

Caleb Powers Not Disturbed Over Talk of Unseating Him.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 26.—Friends of Caleb Powers say that he is not disturbed about the talk that the new Democratic house will not permit him to take his seat. It is understood that the congressman-elect from the Eleventh district takes the position that his candidacy was submitted to the voters of the Eleventh district and that he was elected by a majority of about 9,000 votes. His friends assert that he is not afraid of being turned out of congress, even by a Democratic house. Thus far no Democratic member of the house has declared that Powers should be turned out. Up to this time the question has only been discussed by the newspapers.

BRANCHES IN ALL THE PRINCIPAL CITIES

The Martinsville Reporter, whose editor is a Beveridge postmaster, tries to prove in a three-column editorial that the recent election results showed that but for the Beveridge campaign Indiana would have gone Democratic by 100,000. The Sixth district is cited as a "horrible example." Whatever was done in the Sixth district was done by the insurgent element of the party. It was either insurgency or ruin with them, while the regular and loyal administration Republican stood by that party and even gulped down the Beveridge pill without making a wry face. The following from Friday's Marion Chronicle is to the point:

The Indianapolis Star prints a column of editorials clipped from Democratic and near-Democratic and anti-administration Republican newspapers, in which the defeat of Senator Beveridge in Indiana is charged to the treason of regular Republicans. It is evident that the effort to discredit all Indiana Republicans who do not bow down to the new bossism, is going to follow the unspeakable stupid attacks on President Taft and all who stood by the administration and its work in the last campaign. There will be this difference in the situation, however that the plain talk is not going to be confined to one side of the controversy. Some things are going to be said that would have been said in the last campaign except for the loyalty of Republicans to their party. The challenge offered by the Star and the Sun and the other newspapers of the same breed will be accepted; the effort to use the Republican State machinery longer as a personal asset will be resisted, the attempt to deliver the party in Indiana to the importing interests and the liquor interests will be fought to the finish and with a fullness of detail about the character and motives of the men and interests back of the movement which will leave no citizen of Indiana in any doubt as to its origin and its significance. The Republican party in Indiana has been the football of a bunch of petty bosses and political adventurers long enough, and from now on every Republican with respect for himself and respect for his party is going to talk right out in meeting. The most apparent thing in connection with this movement of the bosses is the open effort to make terms with the Indiana liquor machine. That sort of an effort will make the question of whether the Republican party in Indiana is to be controlled by the brewery interests or by the people, the paramount issue in this State between now and November, 1912, and on that issue the rank and file of Indiana Republicans is ready for a fight.

Andersonville People Hope For I. &
C. Extension via Brookville.

In incorporating the new I. & C. Traction company, provision was made to extend the line to Cincinnati, either from Connersville, Greensburg or Rushville by way of Brookville, says the Andersonville Herald. The latter is the line that we want to pull for. It is the most feasible of the three routes proposed and would be the best paying investment. The right-of-way can be secured free from Rushville to Brookville. Let us all go to work and see if we can't land the prize.

An Indiana man killed himself because Beveridge lost. This, however, wasn't due to the man's affection for Beveridge, but to the fact that he lost a bet.—Atlanta Journal.

Used up Pretty Fast.

Some one asks why the football season is so short. Because, we suppose, they run out of material by Thanksgiving.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Cut off Principles.

Mr. Kern of Indiana, says that in going to the senate he will stand by his principles and his whiskers. Such distinction is hardly necessary. Mr. Kern's whiskers are the visible token of his principles.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Might Do for Tripe.

Automobile tires are to be reduced 15 per cent, but they cannot be used as a substitute for bacon.—Toledo Blade.

Regardless of Cost.

John W. Kern of Indiana has been advised to shave off his whiskers before he goes to the senate. If he is an honest man he won't do it. The people voted to send those whiskers to the senate and they ought to go there.—Toledo Blade.

Too Hasty, by Far.

A girl in New York killed herself because her supposed millionaire lover turned out to be a waiter. She should have given him time. He would have got there.—Washington Herald.

Do Both.

Senator Beveridge should not go to New York to practice law. He should do something original.—Springfield Republican. Might try keeping quiet.—Cincinnati Enquirer. We do not think his presence here would drown the noise of Broadway traffic.—New York Herald.

Don't Think it Safe.

Attempt to organize an old-home week in Pittsburgh has failed. Her prominent citizens won't come back.—Wall Street Journal.

Bristles and All.

An admirer of John W. Kern advises him to "shave off those darn whiskers before he goes to the senate." Mr. Kern, however, is of the opinion that Indiana has indorsed his hedge and will carry it to Washington with him.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Considerable of a Strain.

Bonke Cockran reverses himself so often that he may soon begin to wear out at the hinges.—Wall Street Journal.

Everything Else.

Two hundred butchers in Pittsburgh have quit making sausage, declaring there is no money in it. Come to think about it, money is the one thing we never ran across in ours.—Detroit Times.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Has it ever occurred to you what a number of terms belonging to cuisine are applied to man in different circumstances? Sometimes he is "basted," he "boils with rage," is "baked with heat," and "burns" with love or jealousy. He is often "cut up," "devoured" with the flame, and "done brown." We "dress" his jacket for him, sometimes he is "eaten up" with care, and occasionally he is "fried." We "cook" his "goose" for him, and often he makes a "goose" of himself. We make a "hash" of him and sometimes he makes a "hash" of something else. He gets into "hot water," and sometimes into a "mess," is made into "mincemeat," and is often in a "pickle." We are often asked to "roast" him, and he is frequently put into a "stew," he is in a "stew," no one knows why. A "soft" is half-baked," and one severely handled is well "peppered." A cheeky young imp is a "saucepans" and a rich father is made to "fork out."

"I beg pardon?"

His drowsiness irritated Blinky slightly, with the result that the right side of his face again underwent an alarming convulsion. "I say," he explained carefully, "just—plain—sody."

"On the level?"

"What?" grunted Blinky, and blinked again.

A smile of comprehension irradiated Nat's features. "Pardon," he said. "I'm a little new to the business."

Blinky, fanning himself industriously, glared round the store while Duncan, turning his back, discreetly found and uncorked the whisky bottle. He poured out a liberal dose of raw red liquor. Then, with his fingers clamped tightly about the bottom of the glass, the better to conceal its contents from any casual but inquisitive passerby, he quickly filled it with soda and placed it before Blinky, accompanying the action with the sweetest of childlike smiles.

"I SAY, JUST—PLAIN—SODY."

Lockwood, nodding his acknowledgments, lifted the glass to his lips. Duncan awaited developments with some apprehension. To his relief, however, Blinky, after an experimental swallow, emptied the mixture expeditiously into his system and smacked his thin lips resoundingly.

"How," he demanded, "can any one want intoxicating likkers when they can get such a bracin' drink as that?"

"I pass," Nat breathed, limp with admiration of such astounding hypocrisy.

Blinky reluctantly pried a nickel loose from his finances and placed it on the counter. Duncan regarded it with disdain.

"Ten cents more, please," he suggested tactfully.

"What for?"

"Plain sody." The explanation was accompanied by a very passable imitation of Blinky's blink.

CHAPTER XIII.

HAPPILY for Duncan, Blinky had no sense of humor. If he had he would explode the very first time he indulged in introspection.

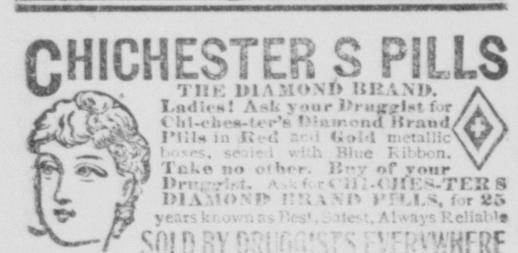

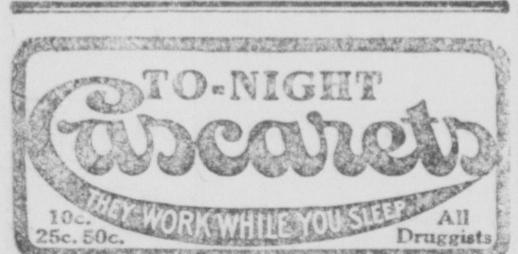

"Not much," said he, with his sour smile. "I guess you're jokin' about the price of that drink. Well, good luck to you, Mr. Duncan. I'd like to have you come round and see us some evenin'!"

"Thank you very much, sir." Duncan accompanied Blinky to the door. "I've already had the pleasure of meeting your daughter, sir. She's a charming girl."

"I'm real glad you think so," said Blinky, intensely gratified. "She seems to've taken a great shine to you too. Come round and get 'quainted with the hull family. You're the sort of young feller I'd like her to know." He paused and looked Nat up and down captiously, as one might appraise the points of a horse of quality put up for sale. "Good day," said he, with the most significant of winks.

"Oh, that's all right." Nat hastened to reassure him. "I won't say a word about it."

Blinky, on the point of leaving, started

MARK TWAIN ONCE SAID

"It is Spring Fever that causes the general unrest, lack of ambition and run-down condition which pervades the human system in the Spring of the year."

The sudden change from frigid to torrid weather occurs within a few weeks, especially in our northern states.

No wonder pulmonary troubles—pneumonia, spring fever, and all such ailments are almost universal.

If people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to get enough to supply the demand.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.

Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, those suffering from bronchitis, chronic cough and colds, all derive great benefit from its use.

ed to question this to him cryptic utterance, but luckily had the current of his thoughts diverted by the entrance of Roland Barnette in company with his friend Mr. Burnham.

Roland's consternation at this unexpected encounter was, in the mildest term, extreme. At sight of his employer he pulled up as if slapped. "Oh," he faltered, "I didn't know you was here, sir."

"No," said Blinky, with keen relish: "I guess you didn't."

"I—ah—come over to see Sam about that note," stammered Roland.

"Waah, don't you bother your head 'bout what ain't your business, Roly. Come on back to the bank."

"All right, sir." Roland grasped frantically at the opportunity to emphasize his importance. "Excuse me, Mr. Lockwood, but I'd like to introduce you to a friend of mine, Mr. Burnham, from New York."

Amused, Burnham stepped into the breach. "How are you?" he said with the proper nuance of cordiality, offering his hand.

Lockwood shook it unemotionally. "How do do?" he said perfunctorily.

"I brought Mr. Burnham in to see Sam"—

"Yes," Burnham interrupted Roland quickly; "Barnette's been kind enough to show me round town a bit."

"Here on business?" inquired Lockwood pointedly.

"No, not exactly," returned Burnham with practical ease; "just looking round."

"Only lookin', eh?" Blinky's countenance underwent one of its erratic quakes as he examined Burnham with his habitual intentness.

The New Yorker caught the wink and lost breath. "Ah—yes—that's all," he assented uneasily. And as he spoke another wink dumfounded him. "Why?" he asked, with a distinct loss of assurance. "Don't you believe it?"

"Don't see no reason why I should not," grunted Blinky. "Hope you'll like what you see. Good day."

"So long, Mr. Lockwood," returned Burnham uncertainly.

Lockwood paused outside the door. "Come along, Roland."

"Yes, sir; right away; just a minute." Roland was lingering unwillingly, detained by Burnham's imperative hand. "What d' you want? I got to hurry."

"What was he winking at me for?" demanded Burnham heatedly. "Have you?"

"Oh!" Roland laughed. "He wasn't winking. He can't help doing that."

"I was a twitchin' he's got in his eye. That's why they call him Blinky."

"Oh, that was it!" Burnham accepted the explanation with distinct relief, while Duncan, who had been an unregarded spectator, suddenly found cause to retire behind one of the showcases on important business.

So that was the explanation!

After his paroxysm had subsided and he felt able to control his facial muscles Duncan emerged suave and solemn. Roland had disappeared with Blinky, and Burnham was alone.

"Anything you wish, sir?" asked Nat.

"Only to see Mr. Graham."

"He's out just at present, but I think he'll be back in a moment or so. Will you wait? You'll find that chair comfortable, I think."

"Believe it will," said Burnham, with an air. He seated himself. "I can't wait long, though," he amended.

"Yes, sir. And if you'll excuse me—

Burnham's hand dismissed him with a tolerant wave. "Go right on about your business," he said, with supreme condescension.

And Duncan returned to his work in the back yard.

It wasn't long before he found occasion to go back to the store, and by that time old Sam was there in conversation with Burnham.

"That's part of my business," he heard Burnham say in his sleek, oleaginous accents. "Sometimes I pick up an odd, no 'count contraption that makes me a bit of money, and more times I'm stung and lose on it. There might be something to this gas burner of yours, and again there mightn't. I've been thinking I might be willing to risk a few dollars on it if we could come to terms."

"Do you mean it really?" said old Sam eagerly.

"Not to invest in it, so to speak; I don't think its chances are strong enough for that. But if you'd care to sell the patent outright and aren't too ambitious we might make a dicke What d' you say?"

"Why, yes," said Graham, quivering with anticipation. "Yes, indeed, if—

"Well?"

"If you really think it's worth anything, sir."

Burnham laughed doubtfully and said:

"Well, as I say, there's no telling, but I was thinking about it at dinner, and I sort of concluded I'd like to own

Graham, thunderstruck by this munificence.

"Yes, sir, five hundred, cash. To tell you the truth—guess you don't know it—I heard at the bank that they didn't intend to extend the time on that note of yours, and I thought this five hundred would come in handy and kind of wanted to help you out. Now, what do you say?"

He flourished the bills under Graham's nose and waited, entirely at ease as to his answer.

"Well," said the old man. "It is kind of you, sir—very kind. Everybody's been good to me recently, or else I'm dreamin'."

"Then it's a bargain?"

"Why, I hope it won't lose any money for you, Mr. Burnham." Sam lect something. The name of Burnham plucked a string on the instrument of his memory. He knew he had heard it some place, some time in the past, but how or when or in respect to what he could not make up his mind. It had required Sam's reference to gas and crude oil to close the circuit. Then he remembered Kellogg had mentioned a man by the name of Burnham who was "on the track of" an important invention for making gas from crude oil. This must be the man Burnham, the tracker, and poor old Graham must be the tracked.

PURDUE'S NEEDS WILL BE URGED

Legislative Committee to Be Asked For Many Things.

LIBRARY IS PRESSING NEED

At Present There Is No Adequate Provision Made for Caring For Books, and This Will Be Laid Before Visiting Committee—Soldiers' Home at Lafayette Also Has Some Urgent Needs Which Will Be Presented.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 26.—When the legislative committee of the general assembly arrives here to visit Purdue university and the soldiers' home, President Stone of Purdue and Commandant Haggard of the home will, respectively, present the needs of the two institutions. Purdue is badly in need of a library building. The present structure serves as the registrar's office, students' chapel and also for classrooms, and it is not possible so to arrange the volumes that they can be handled easily. The rapidly growing collection of books is stacked in piles out of reach of those who might wish to use them. In every respect the library is behind the times, and a library building is the university's greatest need. It is said that an appropriation will also be asked for the dairy department, which is now housed in the main agricultural building, using the basement. There is talk of an armory being asked for, as the present one is an old wooden building not large enough to hold the student cadet corps. There are various other needs, and Purdue looks for a substantial recognition by the general assembly at the coming session.

The state Soldiers' Home is badly overcrowded and the principal request will be for new dormitory that will accommodate 100 persons, with living and sleeping quarters. Another important need is a nurses' home. The nurses now occupy quarters in the hospital, which is not large enough for this purpose, all the room being needed for patients. Commandant Haggard will ask an appropriation for such a home and also one for repairs and improvements on the present buildings. The total enrollment at the home is above the 1,400 mark and is growing rapidly. Many are being kept on the waiting list because there are no accommodations for more than the present number.

Jury Finds For Plaintiff Against Saloon Keepers.

Greenfield, Ind., Nov. 26.—The suit by Mrs. Alta M. Ward against the Terre Haute Brewing company, Claude D. Miller, a saloon keeper, and David O'Donnell, his bartender, for $10,000 damages, resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff of $3,500. It was alleged in the suits that the defendants sold liquor to her husband until he became intoxicated and shot and killed Thomas McIntyre, for which he is serving a life sentence in prison. The case came to this county from Marion county on change of venue.

Surgical Operation Leaves Editor in Mental Condition of a Child.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 26.—Following a successful surgical operation for the removal of a tumor from the brain, Jesse V. Taylor of this city is in the mental condition of a five-year-old child. Taylor was editor of an agricultural publication when a strange development resulted in an almost complete loss of memory. Physicians say that Taylor must now begin to learn as a little child would, and that it will be necessary to start anew in teaching him. Physically he is as well as ever, but there is small hope of his complete mental recovery.

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—It is announced at the office of the governor that Thomas F. Colbert, former chief of the Indianapolis police department, has been appointed superintendent of public buildings and grounds, the appointment to become effective Dec. 10. Colbert will succeed Charles J. Wheeler of Noblesville, who was named for the place eighteen months ago.

Farmer Killed Boy Trespasser.

JOHN BIGELOW.
At Ninety-two Famous Author
Is Writing Another Book.

JOHN BIGELOW HAS ANOTHER BIRTHDAY

It Is His 93d, But He Is Still Alert.

New York, Nov. 26.—John Bigelow's ninety-third birthday was celebrated at Mr. Bigelow's home, 21 Gramercy Park, by his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, together with hundreds of personal friends who kept calling through the afternoon to wish him as many more birthdays as he had had. That part of New York is never so lively of an afternoon as when Mr. Bigelow's birthday comes around, and yesterday a record was made.

In the morning there was a reunion of the family and Bigelow was photographed with his son, Poultney Bigelow, the latter's daughter, Mrs. J. F. Aloysius Clark, and Mrs. Clark's daughter, Miss Evelyn Bigelow Clark. Telegrams and cables of congratulation kept coming all day. Besides there was a stack of letters brought by the postman or delivered by hand, and flowers kept coming almost by the wagon load, and presents by the score. The party at luncheon included only one guest besides the family, and that was J. Pierpont Morgan. In the afternoon the friends came in legions.

During the recent campaign Mr. Bigelow gave ample evidence that time had not dulled the keenness of his intellect or blunted his pen, for he made a number of important contributions to campaign literature. He still keeps as much abreast of the times as he did when, sixty years ago, he used to edit the Evening Post. Mr. Bigelow has been voting the Democratic ticket for seventy-two years, which is more than twenty years longer than anybody has the Republican ticket. He has been lawyer, editor, writer and diplomat, achieving distinction in each field.

Providence, Ky., Nov. 26.—Ten men are entombed in mine No. 3 of the Providence Coal company at this place, and little expectation of their rescue alive is entertained. The mine rescue car is on the way here from Indiana, and a practical demonstration of its appliances will be made.

STERN ORDERS GIVEN BY DIAZ

Mexican Troops Instructed to Give No Quarter.

THE GALVESTON SIDE OF IT

Report From Gulf City Has It That No Arrests Are Being Made in Mexico, the Insurrectos Being Shot on Sight Under Instructions From the Central Government, and That the Stain Strew the Streets.

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 26.—With orders to take no prisoners and shoot any and all persons taking up arms against the government, the Mexican troops have literally strewn their marches with dead revolutionists and even innocent natives. In several houses in Puebla, Parral, San Antonio and other towns ten and fifteen bodies have been found where they fell when the troops shot into the buildings. On the roads leading from many places where the revolutionists were routed their dead are found where the soldiers pursued and shot them when fleeing. Officers of the army say there will be few if any arrests, even of the leaders, because when they are found they are certain to escape or fight and will be shot down. It is feared many soldiers have killed their personal enemies under the liberal orders issued them to shoot all revolutionists.

Openly charging Francisco I. Madero with organizing and directing the present disturbance, the Mexican government has offered a reward of $25,000 for him dead or alive. In Mexican army circles the report is circulated that Diaz will add a personal reward of $10,000 extra if Madero is taken alive. The report that he was wounded is not credited here.

REYES DENIES IT

Old General Says He Is Not Backing Present Insurrection.

City of Mexico, Dec. 26.—The statement which General Bernardo Reyes issued from Paris, France, in regard to the situation in this country and in which he affirms his loyalty to the administration of Diaz and belittles the present uprisings, has been widely published in Mexico. It was wired by the government to all parts of the republic and orders given to the authorities of the different districts that the people be made acquainted with the statement. General Reyes denied the report that he intends to return to Mexico and, expressed the opinion that President Diaz, whom he described as a great patriot, would succeed in restoring order and afterward adopt effective measures for assuaging the present popular discontent in Mexico.

It came as a telling blow to the ardor and hopes of the revolutionary leaders who have been diligently circulating the report that Reyes was back of the present movement and was even on his way to Mexico to assume command of the revolutionary forces.

General Reyes's statement makes it probable that the army will remain loyal to the present administration, no matter what the turn of events may be. It is the hope in high official circles that the stand which General Reyes has taken will cause a speedy dissolution of the armed bands that are still roving in some parts of the country.

The report is current that President Diaz will restore Reyes to his former position as minister of war when he enters upon his new administration.

To Reimburse Aliens.

City of Mexico, Nov. 26.—Eduardo Chaix, consul of France in Puebla, has presented a claim against the government for $3,000 damages done Julio Sibilot, a merchant of that city, during the recent revolutionary disturbance there. Other claims for damages to property of foreign residents will be presented, it is stated.

TO PUT UP SIGNS TO WARN TRAVELER

South Main Street Barred to Traffic, Causes Inconvenience to the Farmers Who do Not Know.

COME IN FROM EAST OR WEST

People living south of the city are having a great deal of trouble in getting into the city. Main street is torn up south of the mill-race and the street is closed to traffic. This is a great inconvenience to the farmer who does not know this as he will drive towards town until stopped by the barriers and is compelled to go back. This morning John Whitlock conceived the plan whereby the Merchants Association will place signs at the cross roads telling the people how to get into the city. There will be a sign at the Noah Matlock corner, telling the people to drive one mile south of Jersey City, turn east on the Stiers road and come in east of the cemetery. There will be another sign at the Glen Miller corner telling them to go west over the iron bridge and come in on the river road. These signs will be of big benefit to the people who do not know about the street being closed.

OPEN RUPTURE IS THE RESULT

Continued from page one. him and Mr. O'Neil. The present prosecutor went to Reno, Nevada, last summer to see the much lamented prize fight and when he returned he found that he had a candidate for the nomination for prosecuting attorney in his own camp. He had already made his announcement as a candidate for nomination and did not expect to meet with competition in Shelby. But it developed that the man whom he trusted most, came to be his opponent.

A young attorney by the name of Brown was left in charge of the prosecutor's office during Cheney's absence. When the prosecutor returned, he found Brown a full-fledged candidate and with four delegates promised to support him in the convention. The remainder of the story is ancient history. They went into the convention and a deadlock was the result, the four delegates holding out for Brown, when Cheney needed only one vote to be nominated.

It is now said that Cheney thought and still believes that a certain prominent Democratic politician in Shelby county was the cause of Brown announcing his candidacy for the nomination. Cheney was sore, so it is said and agreed to throw his strength to O'Neil in case he could have the deputyship in Shelby county. The result was that O'Neil was nominated and eventually elected. It is said that Cheney and his friends worked diligently election day for O'Neil and now he has been rewarded with the second job.

But three would-be bosses of the local Democratic party were not in favor of such moves. They wanted Charley Hack for deputy, so it is said, and they refused to be consoled, a racket resulting in the organization. Hence the dissolution of the law firm. It is understood that the local ring leaders claim that they have been slipping around for two years to pledge delegates so that O'Neil could be nominated and since they have been successful, they claim a right to a word in cutting the pie.

But, in truth, they are disconsolate and sad, for all is lost.
